

Jackie Mader

The Hechinger Report

United States

Jackie Mader is a senior early childhood reporter at The Hechinger Report, where she has covered early childhood for nearly a decade. She previously worked as a special education teacher in Charlotte, North Carolina, and trained new teachers in Mississippi. Her work has appeared in The New York Times, The Atlantic, USA TODAY, TIME and NBC News as well as other national and local outlets.

In 2021, she was one of two American journalists chosen for the Dart Center for Journalism and Trauma's Early Childhood Development Fellowship where she researched and wrote about the pandemic's impact on young children. In 2023, she was a Spencer Fellow for Education Journalism at Columbia University where she studied the consequences of America's lack of investment in child care.

